Breaking Down Common Misconceptions

- You want momentum but you should avoid “overextended” moves?
- FALSE when looking for 30x Returns...
 - Some moves are “overextended” for a reason, institutional buying and short squeezes can push stocks far beyond normal levels...

Case Study: Workhorse Group (WKHS)

WKHS - Daily

NASDS L=30.30 -0.30 -0.98%

O=30.99

Case Study: Overstock (OSTK)

Secret #2

Breaking Down Common Misconceptions

- You should avoid Out-of-the-Money options, they are too risky?
- FALSE when looking for 30x Returns...
 - If you're looking to make 3, 10 or even 30 times your investment then OTM options are the Best Way to get the leverage necessary to make that happen!

Case Study: Plug Power (PLUG)

PLUG - Daily

NASDAQ L=73.47 7.75 11.79%

O=67.64

We Bought PLUG Stock at $18.47 and Took +100% and

Case Study: Novovax (NVAX)

Secret #3

Breaking Down Common Misconceptions

- You should always use a stop order to protect your trades?
- FALSE when looking for 30x Returns...
 - Stops work well for most strategies, but when you are looking for extreme moves (that can turn $1,000 into $13,000) you will need some breathing room... Stops are your enemy when you take these high momentum trades!

Compounding vs. Fixed Dollar Amount

Should you allocate a fixed percentage of your account toward each trade... to compound your gains?

No... With these super high momentum trades I prefer using a fixed dollar amount. This allows the account to REPLENISH more evenly when a big winning trade hits..

If allocating a fixed $1,000 per trade then a FULL “3 Target” winner can put over $13,000 in profit back into the account...

The Power of Tripling

$1,000 Split Into Thirds with 3 Profit Targets...

First $333 Triples to $999

Second $333 10x to $3330

Third $333 30x to $9990

Total Outcome...

$1,000 Turns Into $14,319

Over $13,000 in Profit Potential Per Trade!
